ROCHESTER, N. Y.

INTRODUCTORY

The Finger Lakes of Central New York are among the foremost of America's beauty spots. To the Finger Lakes Association is largely due the credit for bringing to the attention of the American public one of its richest, and until recently little heralded, gems of natural beauty.

A glance at the map will show the heart of the region cut longitudinally by a group of lakes—spread like the fingers of a mighty hand—varying from four to forty miles in length and from one-half to three miles in width. With the exception of a short stretch of road between Canandaigua and Naples, they are completely surrounded by a continuous and splendidly improved highway, while numerous good roads, traversing the region in all directions, make practically every part accessible.

It was about these lakes that the American Indian reached his highest development long before the white man came to displace him. Here these aborigines cleared away the forest and planted grains and fruits; here they builded substantial log houses and established village; and here they founded a stable form of government, a league of nations, which functioned well for many generations before finally being supplanted by a superior race.

The visitor to this section will find almost any kind of natural beauty that may be desired. At the lower or northerly ends of the lakes the country is gently rolling, while at the upper or southerly ends the hills rise to a height of over two thousand feet. As one journeys thru this region there is a constant change of scenery—broad vistas revealing the tranquil lakes in their matchless settings among the hills, wooded slopes, prosperous farms and vineyards, deep glens, lofty waterfalls and cascading streams. And above all well kept cities, villages and hamlets where frank hospitality and comfortable accommodations typify the spirit—"Every Traveler our Guest."

The motive which prompted this publication was a desire to give resident and visitor alike a complete and authentic guide to the region by giving definite and specific information concerning points of interest and to show their accessibility by automobile.

The publishers will deem it a special favor to be advised of any additional points of interest for inclusion in future editions.

CANANDAIGUA LAKE

Canandaigua Lake is sixteen miles long and averages about one mile in width. Its greatest depth is 262 feet. The country at the lower end, near the village of Canandaigua, is gently rolling while at the upper end around Naples the hills rise to a height of 2,000 feet above the lake. The shores on either side from Canandaigua are lined with cottages. Deep Run Park, on the east side, offers recreation. A tourist camp is provided at the foot of the lake, directly on the state highway. The most important village on the lake is

CANANDAIGUA

It covers the site of the Seneca Indian Village "Kanandarque" which had 23 log houses and a granary—destroyed by General Sullivan in 1779. Here Phelps and Gorham opened the first land office in Western New York, 1789. The last general Council of the Iroquois was held in Canandaigua in 1794. The Historical Museum and Library contain many relics and historical records which are intimately associated with events in the immediate region. The more important points of interest are located on the city map. They are GRANGER HOMESTEAD—built in 1818 by Francis Granger, Postmaster General under President William Henry Harrison. The original building still stands.

SERVICE

THE ROOMS are airy, sweet and clean, with running water and baths.

THE GRILL is immaculate and famous for the superior quality of all the seasonable dishes offered on its menu—at modest prices.

THE COFFEE SHOP is open at all hours and provides everything in the line of "short orders"—at very moderate prices.

Located in the center of the city, but sufficiently distant from railroads to be quiet. Garages within one block.

ARSENAL HILL—so called because it was the site of a State Arsenal built in 1808 and used during the war of 1812.

SWIMMING SCHOOL PARK MONUMENT—bears this inscription, “Near this spot lying in a circle with faces toward the Sacred Hill, Ganundewah, were found the remains of 16 Seneca Indians — men and boys—dwellers in the ancient village Kanandarque. They now rest here.”

SONENBURG — the estate of Mrs. F. F. Thompson. A trip to this estate, at the end of Howell Street, is not to be missed. Here will be found some beautiful gardens—Japanese, Italian, Marble, Old Rose, Water and Rock —also a fine collection of birds. Visitors are admitted daily at 1 P. M. sharp, except Sundays and holidays.

KEUKA LAKE

The name is Indian and means "Crooked" or "Lake with an arm." It is 21 miles long, has a depth of 183 feet and an average width of three-quarters of a mile. The entire country surrounding the lake offers exceptionally fine views but the outstanding feature is Bluff Point from the crest of which a vast panorama unfolds to view. No doubt it was the splendid vista from this spot that tempted Abraham Wagener, the first settler of Penn Yan, to sell out his holdings and move to Bluff Point where, in 1835, he erected a home. This house is still standing. Its location is indicated on the map by a small dot at the crest of the point. To reach this spot about eight miles of unimproved road must be used but in good weather the route is not bad and the trip is replete with fine views along the entire drive.

The slopes about Keuka grow the finest grapes in America. They bring better prices than those from any other region because of their superior quality and flavor. These peaceful waters witnessed the inception and development of the flying boat.

The shores are dotted with numerous summer colonies. There are ample facilities for bathing, boating, canoeing, and good hotel accommodations are available for all who wish to tarry.

KEUKA LAKE

PENN YAN

This delightful village, cozily surrounded by hills on all sides, except where Keuka Lake stretches away to the south, will please the eye of the traveler. Like most of the villages in Central New York it has the appearance of being well kept. Among its residences are many examples of fine architecture. The outlet from the lake furnishes excellent water power, having a drop of 265 feet in a distance of five miles. Here are located the Burkitt Mills, largest manufacturers of buckwheat products in the world. Other manufactured products include store fixtures, fruit packages, men's clothing, and paper. The village gets its queer name from the early settlers—Pennsylvanians and Yankees.

HAMMONDSPORT

This village was the native heath of Glen H. Curtis, pioneer aviator and inventor. Here he conducted all his earlier experiments and developed the flying boat—even the NCs which acquired fame by trans-Atlantic flight. The surrounding country is the heart of the finest grape growing section in America and for many years the best American wines were vinted in this vicinity. Grapes are still the principal product.

SENECA LAKE

SENECA LAKE

Seneca is the largest of all the lakes in the region. It is 618 feet deep and, with the exception of lake Michigan, is the deepest body of water wholly within the boundaries of the United States. The deepest point is 174 feet below sea level. The lake is 36 miles long and averages about 2 miles in width. At a depth of 200 feet the temperature remains at 39 degrees Fahrenheit the year around. It has hardly ever been known to freeze over completely which is probably due to its great depth and the fact that the lake is an immense spring, as indicated by the absence of large feeders.

The region at the head of the lake abounds in scenic wonders. The glens and waterfalls at its upper end combine to make this one of the foremost of America's beauty spots. Fishing is good, Seneca Lake being famous for its trout.

GENEVA

At the foot of the lake is Geneva, a progressive, thriving city of 15,000 inhabitants. It is the center of a fine agricultural section of general farm produce and fruits. It is also a nursery center and a New York Agricultural Experiment Station is located here. The varied industries include the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables, the manufacture of lenses and optical goods, cutlery, furnaces, stoves, type, gasoline engines, motor boats and breakfast food.

SENECA LAKE

Geneva is the site of the old Seneca Indian Village "Kan-a-de-sa-ga." Its 50 log houses were destroyed by General Sullivan's expedition. Here lived the Chief Sachem of the Seneca nation, and here lie buried many of the Indian Chiefs. A burial mound may be seen just northwest of the city limits. Visitors should also see the Lafayette tree, under the spreading branches of which General Lafayette received the people of this section on his tour thru New York State in 1825. The coach used by the noted visitor at that time may be seen at the house of Charles D. Bean, situated on the crest of the hill just west of the tree.

South Main Street closely follows the shore of the lake and has many beautiful homes. A drive along this thoroughfare is well worth while. On this street is located Hobart College founded in 1822, and the William Smith College for Women is close by.

SENECA LAKE

Who has not heard of Watkins Glen? This gorge, extending for three miles back into the hillside, has its entrance directly on the main street of the village. Since 1911 it has been a state park, and substantial paths and stairways make it accessible. Description will not add to its beauty. A trip to the Finger Lakes would be incomplete without a visit to Watkins Glen.

Mineral Springs abound in the Finger Lakes region but at Watkins is the only place where they have been used on a large scale for the treatment of disease. The Glen Springs is among the few places in America where one may obtain all the medicinal and natural advantages of the European spas.

The village was named Jefferson by its founder, Dr Samuel Watkins. Later the name was changed to Watkins, in his honor, through the influence of the late Judge Freer. One of the hotels here perpetuates the original name of the village.

Watkins is located over one of the most profitable salt beds in the United States. Thousands of tons of fine table salt are annually refined from the brine pumped from the earth.

THE WATKINS REVIEW

BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE FINGER LAKES

Do you know the Best Route to Your Destination?
How far is it? Are the roads improved, unimproved or under construction?

NUFOLD ROAD GUIDES WILL TELL YOU

Most road maps and books show only main routes—
NUFOLD GUIDES show all improved highways

They will save you money, time and trouble

For sale at any good Book Store

and how to use it

THE SPECIAL FOLD of the large map is most convenient. Two-thirds of the territory may be referred to without the annoyance of unfolding the map.

Holding the map as at present turn the folds from left to right—the upper or lower section of the map is visible, whichever happens to be folded uppermost.

Turn the map around, end for end, and again turn the folds from left to right—the central section of the map will be visible. It is always in view.

When traveling in the upper or lower sections of the map simply open it up, fold uppermost the section desired, and push the map back into the cover. Understand the fold and you will appreciate its convenience.

For explanation of map features see lower right hand corner.

FOR INFORMATION

The Finger Lakes Association, a composite Chamber of Commerce of the different communities in the region, will gladly furnish any desired information. An attractive, illustrated booklet of the region is available upon request and inquiries concerning cottage accommodations will have particular attention. Address the Secretary,

E. C. COOPER,
Watkins, N. Y.

UMENT TO JESUITS. Inscription—"This valley was the site of the principal Cayuga Indian village. To the brave Jesuit missionaries whose heroism was almost without equal—Joseph Chaumont and Rene Menard who as guests of Chief Saonchiogwa built here in 1656 the first house of Christian worship in Western New York; Stephen DeCarheil for nine years ministered here and his co-laborer Peter [unclear]—this memorial is respectfully erected".

RA. See page 14

HANNOCK FALLS. This is the highest single waterfall east of the Rocky Mountains, being 215 feet in a straight line. The flow is through a deep, canyon-like gorge the sides of which rise over 300 feet. At present this property is privately owned. The last half mile of road is unimproved while passable in dry weather, is bad when wet.

CA. See page 12

ELD FALLS RESERVATION. A State Park containing some 400 acres which includes Enfield Glen and Falls. The geometrical precision of the fissures in the rocks, the rapids and rapids, the cascading falls with a drop of 210 feet make this glen most impressive. It is well to start at the upper entrance and go down through the gorge, coming out at the lower level.

AGHER MUSEUM. Owned by Lyman Gallagher. Contains many Curios, Antiques, Indian and Historical Relics.

VILLE. See page 14

AN. Here stands an Elm tree 148 years old which is 12 feet in diameter, 90 feet high and covers a quarter acre of ground. The first threshing machine in America was manufactured here by James Miller. McLean is the birth place of General Nathan L. Miller.

E OF DAVID HARUM. Here resided David Hanum, a Jew, whom Edward Noyes Wescott built the character David, so well known to the American Public.

AVIA. See page 17

EN OCEAN. From this elevated point one may look upon the surrounding country in all directions. Three points are visible and the countryside seems to roll away in billows. The unusual name applied to this point comes from the appearance these waves present when covered with ice.
